

(Barolo Undicomuni 2020)
 "Restrained red cherry pits, red currants, cinnamon and some earthy minerality. Sucrosity on the palate, with a full body, crisp acidity and refined, velvety tannins." 91 points, James Suckling (September 2024)

(Barolo Ravera 2021) "This is one of the nine crus presented by the Terre del Barolo cooperative in the ambitious ArnaldoRivera Barolo line. Created from the blending of five plots, owned by as many members, at elevations of 360m-450m, the aromas evoke a carpet of flowers – particularly violets and rose petals – at the foot of an orchard heavy with cherries and crunchy plums. The palate is agile and round, savoury, fresh and marked by a dynamic and invigorating acidic vein." 94 points, Tiziano Gala (July 2025)

ARNALDORIVERA

Piemonte, Italy

The ArnaldoRivera wines are a result of a collaboration between Terre del Barolo winery and a selection of their growers, with the aim to produce a range of top-quality wines, showcasing their best sites and highest quality fruit. Named in homage to their founder, Arnaldo Rivera, who established the cooperative in 1958, the project launched in 2017 with their first vintage of Barolo 2013.

With vineyards situated in 9 historical cru sites within Barolo, their focus is Nebbiolo. From their flagship wine called Barolo Undicomuni, which refers to the 11 (undici) communes (comuni) that make up the Barolo appellation, the Nebbiolo grapes for this wine are sourced from across the 11 communes. To their single vineyard offerings, showcasing the individual characteristics of each site; Rocche di Castiglione, Villero, Vignarionda, Cannubi, Rocche dell'Annunziata, Monvigliero, Bussia, Ravera and Castello. In addition to their Nebbiolo-based wines, they also work with very small parcels of rare native grapes, from lesser-known appellations, such as Verduno Pelaverga and Nascetta del Comune di Novello.

All the vineyards are carefully monitored and maintained under the watchful eye of expert Geologist and Co-Author of the Barolo MGA book, Edmondo Bonelli and his team. They guide the growers, ensuring that each plot receives the individual treatment it needs, to bring out the best in the vines. In the winery, they have invested in state-of-the-art equipment, ensuring fruit quality follows through from vine to bottle. And to maintain maximum expression of both the fruit and its provenance, minimal intervention in the winery is key to their winemaking approach.

A commitment to quality, terroir, and expert craftsmanship, is clearly evident in these wines. Beautifully pure expressions of Nebbiolo and inspiring examples of the less common native varieties, all-encompassing Piedmont's undeniable personality. We are delighted to represent these wines in our portfolio.
