Veneto, Italy

(Amarone Sant'Urbano 2020) "Big, bold, and beautiful doesn't always mean brash. From high-altitude vineyards comes this masterclass in classic style, dried cherries and plums weave through tobacco leaf and fresh leather while Mediterranean herbs add lift. The palate brings serious depth but stays pristine, old-school winemaking showing why tradition matters. Fine tannins frame everything perfectly as dark chocolate and spice notes complete the picture. When power meets mountain air clarity." 96 points, Jeff Porter, Wine Enthusiast (January 2026)

(Valpolicella Classico 2024) "Cranberries and red currants still hold their morning chill, while herbs and wildflowers release their scent in the warming air. The palate captures that same freshness, sliding from bright fruits to savoury notes without losing its crisp, vital energy." 93 points, Jeff Porter, Wine Enthusiast (January 2026)

Speri is situated in the heart of the Valpolicella Classica area in Verona, North-East Italy. Since its establishment in 1874, the estate has been managed by successive generations of the Speri family, who combine centuries-old expertise with cutting-edge technology, shaping it into the esteemed winery it is today. The estate has a long history as a pioneering producer in the Valpolicella area, notably being among the first to produce the iconic wine, Amarone della Valpolicella, in 1958.

Under the guidance of Carlo, the patriarch of the fifth generation, the Speri family, including successors Giampaolo, Luca, Chiara, Alberto, and Giampietro of the sixth generation, along with seventh-generation, Giuseppe, collaboratively oversee the estate's operations across the vineyards, winery, sales and marketing department, administration, and hospitality.

Giampietro meticulously manages vineyards and has spearheaded the transition to sustainable practices, earning them official Organic Certification in 2015. Upholding their proud heritage of cultivating solely indigenous grape varieties—Corvina, Corvinone, Rondinella, and Molinara—all grapes are exclusively sourced from estate-owned vineyards.

In the cellar, Alberto serves as Head Oenologist, with the assistance of his son Giuseppe, they oversee all production from pressing to bottling. Tradition lies at the core of their winemaking philosophy, preserving the typicity of their terroir and honouring century-old techniques such as the natural drying process of the grapes. Speri produces five wines: Valpolicella Classico, Valpolicella Ripasso Classico Superiore, Superiore Sant'Urbano, Amarone Classico Sant'Urbano, and Recioto Classico La Roggia.

Handling sales, marketing, and hospitality, Luca and Chiara take the helm. As they continue to grow and develop the business, and venture into new markets, Speri maintains a steadfast commitment to sustainability, dedication to tradition, respect for their terroir, all while embracing modernisation. Quality stands as the ultimate objective and this is evident when you taste these wines, they show elegance, depth, and great focus.
